WORKING STYLES

We all work and communicate in very different ways. Learning how to identify, communicate and respect opposing styles is fundamental to working effectively in a team.

Some of us enjoy basking in the glow of the limelight while others are very uncomfortable with public displays of praise.

By understanding different personalities we can create an environment where others can thrive.

Each working style exhibits general characteristics, strengths, and weaknesses. They need to be managed and communicated in different ways.

Understanding and respecting the unique characteristics in each of us will help us create an environment where we feel safe and respected.

DRIVER

I have a direct, focused style. I often tell people what to do rather than asking. I appear confident and make quick decisions followed by action. I'm an independent Educator and get a lot of things done.
